AYER'S
Cathartic Pills
(SUGAR COATED)
ARE MADE TO [CLE]ANSE THE BLOOD AND CURE THE SICK.
[In]valids, Fathers, Mothers, Physicians, Philanthropists, read their Effects, and judge of their Virtues.
[He]adache, Sick Headache, Foul Stomach.
J. C. AYER. Sir: I have been repeatedly cured of ... headache any body can have by a dose of two of your ... It seems to arise from a foul stomach, which they ... If they will cure others as they do me, the fact is worth knowing. Yours with great respect,
ED. W. PREBLE, Clerk of Steamer ...
[Bi]lious Disorders and Liver Complaints.
[DE]PARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, WASHINGTON, D.C. ... I have used your Pills in my general and hospital practice ever since you made them, and cannot hesitate to say they are the best cathartic we employ. Their regulating action on the liver is quick and decided, consequently they are an admirable remedy for derangements of that organ. Indeed I have seldom found a case of bilious disease so obstinate that it did not readily yield to them. Fraternally yours,
ALONZO BALL, M. D., Physician of the Marine Hospital.
Dysentery, Relax, and Worms.
POST OFFICE, HARTLAND, LIV. CO., MICH., Nov. 15 ... DR. AYER: Your Pills are the perfection of medicine. They have done my wife more good than I can tell you. She had been sick and pining away for months. Went off to be doctored at great expense, but got no better. She then commenced taking your Pills, which soon cured her, by expelling large quantities of worms (dead) from her body. They afterwards cured her and our two children of bloody dysentery. One of our neighbors had it bad, and my wife cured him with two doses of your Pills, while others around us paid from five to twenty dollars doctors' bills, and lost much time, without being cured entirely even then. Such a medicine as yours, which is actually good and honest, will be prized here. GEO. J. GRIFFIN, Postmaster.
[In]digestion and Impurity of the Blood.
From Rev. J. V. Himes, Pastor of Advent Church, Boston.
DR. AYER: I have used your Pills with extraordinary success in my family and among those I am called to visit in distress. To regulate the organs of digestion and purify the blood they are the very best remedy I have ever known, and I can confidently recommend them to my friends. Yours, J. V. HIMES.
WARSAW, WYOMING CO., N. Y., Oct. 24, ...
DEAR SIR: I am using your Cathartic Pills in my practice, and find them an excellent purgative to cleanse the system and purify the fountains of the blood.
JOHN G. MEACHAM, M. D.
[Ery]sipelas, Scrofula, King's Evil, Tetter, Tumors, and Salt Rheum.
From a Forwarding Merchant of St. Louis, Feb. 4, ...
DR. AYER: Your Pills are the paragon of all that is great in medicine. They have cured my little daughter of ulcerous sores upon her hands and feet that had proved incurable for years. Her mother has been long grievously afflicted with blotches and pimples on her skin and in her hair. After our child was cured, she also tried your Pills, and they have cured her.
ASA MORGRIDGE.
Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and Gout.
From the Rev. Dr. Hawkes, of the Methodist Epis. Church.
PULASKI HOUSE, SAVANNAH, GA., Jan. 6, ...
HONORED SIR: I should be ungrateful for the relief your skill has brought me if I did not report my case to you. A cold settled in my limbs and brought on excruciating neuralgic pains, which ended in chronic rheumatism. Notwithstanding I had the best of physicians, the disease grew worse and worse, until by the advice of your excellent agent in Baltimore, Dr. Mackenzie, I tried your Pills. Their effects were slow, but sure. By persevering in the use of them I am now entirely well.
SENATE CHAMBER, BATON ROUGE, LA., 5 Dec., ...
DR. AYER: I have been entirely cured by your Pills of Rheumatic Gout — a painful disease that had afflicted me for years.
VINCENT SLIDELL.
[For] Dropsy, Plethora, or kindred Complaints, requiring an active purge, they are an excellent remedy.
[For] Costiveness or Constipation, and as a Dinner Pill, they are agreeable and effectual.
[Fits], Suppression, Paralysis, Inflammation, and even Deafness, and Partial Blindness, have been cured by the alterative action of these Pills.
[Most] of the pills in market contain Mercury, which, although a valuable remedy in skilful hands, is dangerous in a public pill, from the dreadful consequences that frequently follow its incautious use. These contain no mercury or mineral substance whatever.

[AY]ER'S CHERRY PECTORAL
FOR THE RAPID CURE OF
[COUG]HS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, INFLUENZA, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION,
[and for] the relief of consumptive patients in advanced stages of the disease.
[We ne]ed not speak to the public of its virtues. Throughout every town, and almost every hamlet of the American States, its wonderful cures of pulmonary complaints have made it already known. Nay, few are the families in any civilized country on this continent without some personal experience of its effects; and fewer yet the communities any where which have not among them some living trophy of its victory over the subtle and dangerous diseases of the throat and lungs. While it is the most powerful antidote yet known to man for the formidable and dangerous diseases of the pulmonary organs, it is also the pleasantest and safest remedy that can be employed for infants and young persons. Parents should have it in store against the insidious enemy that steals upon them unprepared. We have abundant grounds to believe the Cherry Pectoral saves more lives by the consumptions it prevents than those it cures. Keep it by you, and cure your colds while they are curable, nor neglect them until no human skill can master the inexorable canker that, fastened on the vitals, eats your life away. All know the dreadful fatality of lung disorders, and as they know too the virtues of this remedy, we need not do more than to assure them it is still made the best it can be. We spare no cost, no care, no toil to produce it the most perfect possible, and thus afford those who rely on it the best agent which our skill can furnish for their cure.

SATURDAY MORNING OCT 17, 1863

The Vote of Soldiers.

The Democratic papers in California, since the election, and those in other States of the same party have been grievously exercised because the soldiers, who are allowed to vote by special laws of many of the States, from which they hail, almost universally support the cause of the Union not less by their ballots than by their bullets. Intense anxiety is expressed lest our free institutions should be jeopardized by allowing soldiers in the field to exercise the highest right of freemen and one might suppose from reading the bitter tirades against the privilege that on entering the army our brave troops had suddenly lost all independence and intelligence, and indeed every other qualification of a voter, and ought therefore to be deprived of their rights as citizens. It is said that they are mere hirelings, and under improper influences, and cannot or do not fitly judge of the merits of candidates, these faults are found by political leaders, whose main support comes from the ignorant rabble of large cities or from the equally ignorant voters in the country, who are told, and believe that in the Democracy or in what is so called is alone to be found the salvation of free institutions. Some of the followers of these leaders have enlisted and in the army they have learned enough of the sure effects of the treasonable conduct and teachings of the managers of the Democracy, to be convinced, that voters who are patriotic, and desire the success of the Union in its vital conflict with rebellion, can not any longer vote as they did at home, and with loyal enthusiasm, they earnestly support the cause of the Nation, by supporting for civil office only those who are the Nation's friends. Hence arise the complaints and groans of Democratic politicians, if soldiers voted according to the fancy of these men there would be no fault in the system, but so long as they will not do so, of course it will be denounced, and for the purpose of throwing odium upon it as well as for that of excusing the great absence of Democratic votes in the army, it is charged that general officers will not permit soldiers to vote according to their wishes, letters have been written to Grant, Rosecrans and others asking whether such permission would be given, and though such inquiries were a gratuitous, malicious and characteristic insult to the brave men who lead our armies, from the base politicians, who oppose the war, yet Gen Grant very frankly replied to those who wrote from Iowa, "that loyal citizens of Northern States would be allowed to visit the troops from their State at any time. Electioneering, or any course calculated to arouse discordant feelings, will be prohibited. The volunteer soldiers of this army will be allowed to hold an election, if the law gives them the right to vote, and no power shall prevent them from voting the ticket of their choice." Whether this satisfied the questioners, does not appear, but as only loyal citizens could visit the troops, we presume there were not many Democratic visitors, and we have not much doubt that if the soldiers vote the ticket of their choice without interference, ninety nine out of every hundred from every State will decide in favor of the candidates who are true to the Union, and will use their official power for its preservation.

The Next Great Battle.—It is safe to presume that when there is another battle at or near Chattanooga it will be a great one. The stake is immense. If the rebels lose it there will be nothing to prevent the armies of the Union from marching across Georgia to the seaboard, and by this second process of bisection thrusting bodily the Gulf States out of the Confederacy. If the Union loses the battle it will lengthen the war several months, encourage the enemy, and give our precious neutrals over the water new excuses for plotting mischief against us. The material is ample for the grandest struggle of the war. Rosecrans is represented as having 65,000 men in his own army. Burnside's right is in communication with him, and his forces are estimated at 25 000. From the Army of the Potomac there have lately gone to reinforce Rosecrans two corps, or say 30,000. Sherman is reported also to have brought him 20,000. All told then, Rosecrans has probably not less than 150,000 veterans to fight the next great battle with. A telegraphic dispatch a few days since said that the Baltimore correspondent of the New York Herald estimated Bragg's force, swelled by his reinforcements from Johnston and Lee, at from 115,000 to 135,000. All Rosecrans's troops are veterans. The conscripts from the Eastern and Middle States are put into the Army of the Potomac, the corps that left it for Chattanooga, were composed of men who have met Lee again and again. Sherman's contribution come flushed with the victory of Vicksburg. Burnside's men have just redeemed the extreme half of Tennessee and heard a population over which a rebel army had tyrannized for more than a year, hail them as their deliverers. Rosecrans's own have been with him on many battle fields and never tasted defeat. How many of Bragg's forces are veterans, and how many conscripts, we have no means of knowing. There is no place for them to run to, however and under such circumstances they are sure fight with bravery. When, then, the next battle in north western Georgia begins it will be such a conflict as we have not read of lately. It may be—but of that we would not be too sanguine—the last great battle of the war.—S F Bulletin

A Compliant by Oregonians as to the Local Pilot Laws of San Francisco.—The Portland correspondent of the Bulletin has the following sensible remarks upon the unjust and oppressive action of those who make pilotage regulations in San Francisco so far as these effect coasting vessels:

Our coast counties and longshore people have a matter of grievance against California about her Pilot laws that I think will bear ventilation and needs reforming. My information is not derived from your Statutes but from the statements of Oregon ship owners and other persons interested in the question who ought to know whereof they speak. It appears that by the Pilot laws of California a vessel registered and enrolled in San Francisco only pays half pilotage. The difference, as I am credibly informed between whole and half pilotage on a vessel of 150 tons burthen amounts to a difference of fifty cents a thousand feet on a cargo of lumber. The natural consequence is that vessels built and owned in the ports along the coast of Oregon, being mostly engaged in the trade to San Francisco, are registered or enrolled at the latter place. The revenue to be derived from their assessment and taxation is lost to Oregon and I suppose is gained by San Francisco, that being the home port. The value of the shipping so situated may not be very great at this time, but as pride and poverty often go hand in hand, the less we have the more we want credit for. Furthermore, we humbly submit to the proud city of the bay, that the invidious distinction is wrong in principle, unneighborly, and contrary to the true intent and spirit of the Federal Union. The Constitution of the United States gives power to Congress "to regulate commerce among the several States," and prohibits Congress from giving any preference "by any regulation of commerce or revenue, to the ports of one State over those of another." The Supreme Court of the United States has deliberately decided that pilot laws are regulations of navigation, and consequently of commerce (Vide Cooly vs Board of Wardens, 12 How 315 16). By sufferance or toleration the States are allowed to make regulations upon the subject of pilotage until Congress exercises the power. But can or will it be contended from this that California can or ought to give a preference in so doing to a port of that State over the port of this? Congress itself could not do so, and the authority of the State, being only concurrent, is not greater than that of the other, and ceases to exist at all when Congress shall think proper to legislate upon the subject. I merely state the proposition without argument. Let your wise men think of this, and if our grievance is well founded, see to it that the little navy of your brother Oregonians has an equal chance in the great highway of the Golden Gate with yourselves.

Major John Owen.—We find the following statement in the Golden Age, and confess that it seems incredible, for in spite of the errors of Major Owen's politics, we had supposed that his personal integrity, was beyond question. We still think there must be some mistake, which further intelligence will rectify.

Mr Clark informs us that on the day before he left for the Beaver Head country Maj John W Owen was arrested for robbing a man of $400. When arrested $350 was found on his person and recovered. For the other fifty they took his watch, and then let him go ordering him to leave, which he did in double quick time. We have a letter from Bitter Root confirming Mr C's statement in every particular. This is the same John W Owen who was Indian Agent for the Government at the Flat Head agency during Buchanan's Administration, is a secessionist of the first water, and has been laboring all summer to get the nomination for Delegate to Congress from Idaho Territory. Failing in his electioneering enterprise he turns robber. His trip to Beaver Head was an electioneering one, and all the forepart of the summer it was thought, by his most ardent friends and admirers hereabouts and in the State of Oregon, that Maj Owen couldn't be beat in convention, and if nominated that he would be elected. We quite agree in the opinion that the Major would have been a good representative candidate for that party. He is a much better man than Floyd or Vallandigham, and hundreds of lay members of that party in Idaho.

Unlucky Quartermasters.—The Mountaineer says that Fort Dalles has the reputation of being an unlucky post for Quartermasters. Not to go further back, the old residents will recollect Capt Jordan, who for a time flourished as Quartermaster, and subsequently passed many weary months as prisoner at the post, confined there by order of General Harney. Lieut Myers succeeded, and was fortunate enough to get away without involving himself in trouble. Next came Lieut McDougal, who after holding the position for a brief period, took refuge from his troubles in suicide, and now rests quietly in the soldiers' burying ground. Lieut Copoly, of the California Volunteers succeeded to the dead man's legacy and more by good luck than management, got away with an unsullied reputation. Next in the order of succession, came Lieut Fox, of the Washington Territory Volunteers, who has held the position for nearly a year without the shadow of complaint, but the ill luck that seems to follow Quartermasters at Fort Dalles, has finally overtaken the Lieutenant, and he is now a close prisoner, but on what charges we are not informed. Possibly in the course of a month or two we shall learn through the medium of a court martial the nature of his offense, but in the meantime, those who know the Lieutenant will attribute his misfortune to the ill luck that attends the post, rather than to neglect of official duty.

"No Cards."—S M Taylor present editor of the Ellenville (N Y) Journal, who was drafted, indulged in the following:

And last but not least is "ye editor" of the Journal. Believing "the pen to be mightier than the sword," we shall follow the example of "A Ward" and respectfully tender our resignation hoping to remain and continue through these columns the warfare upon the enemies of the country, which our readers will bear witness we have waged during the past two years. If, however, the Board find in us enough of the stuff that soldiers are made of, we shall probably "bow to our destiny," as Greeley says and forward march! in which case the Confederacy will have been completely pulverized by Christmas, at furthest. (No Cards.)

Generous and Patriotic.—We are very glad to learn from the Walla Walla Statesman, that the citizens of Walla Walla county have contributed $1,000, in aid of the Sanitary Commission, which has been forwarded to Dr Bellows. Previous donations from there were very liberal, and this last gift is a noble proof of their sympathy with the suffering defenders of our free institutions.

Eastern News

Headquarters Army of the Potomac, October 8.—During the last twenty four hours there have been no indications of a collision between the two armies but I doubt if any will speedily occur. Our forces are in wait at the front. It was thought yesterday in light of the fact that there was danger of an attack and there were preparations to meet it, but quiet prevailed. Hence the report that a rebel brigade occupied a position north of the Rapidan is incorrect. Our forces picket the entire north bank of the river. It is confined with the Rappahannock on the crossing of a single rebel brigade or division would necessarily bring on a conflict.

New York, October 9.—The Tribune says: If we may trust the intelligence from Richmond, the rebel leaders are not only providing Bragg with reinforcements but also are sending him large quantities of siege material. During the last two weeks extraordinary long range guns have been sent him for the purpose of erecting batteries on Lookout Mountain which is said to be in possession of the advanced guard of the rebels. It is thought that if these batteries reached Chattanooga they would make the place untenable.

Chicago October 9.—A Vicksburg special dispatch of September 30th says: Jo Johnston is at Canton Mississippi with 15 000 troops, his supposed design being to prevent the reinforcement of Gen Rosecrans. Gen Stephen D Lee has 4 000 rebel cavalry near Vicksburg. Johnston says their victory is useless unless they can crush Rosecrans before reinforcements can reach him.

The Memphis Atlanta Appeal speaking of their success at Chattanooga says: "We shall now be recognized; our securities will rise. Vallandigham will be elected."

Nashville, October 8.—Up to this time we have no news of special importance regarding the doings of either our own forces or those of the enemy in the neighborhood of Chattanooga. Railroad communication has not been resumed. The damage is greater than was at first supposed. Information has been received which goes to show that the enemy has divided his mounted force engaged in the recent raid into several detachments and these again into minor ones, and that such detached bands now infest the mountains and woods in this neighborhood thereby rendering the common roads of travel dangerous to other than strong military commands.

A gentleman who was made prisoner by the rebel force when they were in the neighborhood of Murfreesboro says the rebels intended to reach our railroad two days sooner than they did but owing to unforeseen causes and the trouble incident to moving artillery had at last to make extra efforts to get up in time to effect their object or to cause their movement to be a surprise. He says the rebels admitted having failed to carry out their main purpose. They destroyed the railroad and bridges so much to protect their retreat, and for the sake of doing some mischief as they did from any consideration of interference with Rosecrans supplies or reinforcements.

New York, Oct. 9.—A special dispatch to the World says—The Government is once more in communication with Gen Rosecrans. Gen Hooker was near Murfreesboro when Wheeler made his raid. Communication is about fully restored. Everything will go forward as usual.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The Republican extra says—The Government has advices from Chattanooga to Oct 6th. On the 5th the rebel batteries opened on our position at a range of three and two and three quarters miles. A dispatch from Rosecrans headquarters dated Oct 6th says— Not a man was injured by the rebel batteries yesterday. The dispatches show the impregnable position of Rosecrans. There is no official confirmation of the rebel statement that two of Rosecrans pontoon bridges over the Tennessee were carried away. Telegraphic communication had been restored between Nashville and Stevenson, Alabama.

St Louis, Oct 9.—A Leavenworth dispatch says: Intelligence having reached Fort Scott of a threatened attack on Fort Smith by the rebels, Gen Blunt left for the latter post on Sunday last, October 4th.

The rebel General Cabell with about 1,000 of Cooper's forces, crossed the Arkansas River, east of Fort Smith on Oct. 1st and joined Coffee at Cowskin Prairie when they determined to make a raid into Kansas or Missouri. On receipt of this information, all the cavalry in the Kansas District and the batteries were sent to Fort Scott.

A letter from Fort Scott dated Oct. 7th says: A member of Blunt's staff, who has just arrived, reports that all the staff and body guard were captured at Baxter's Springs. Blunt had got ten miles away, but the writer thinks it uncertain whether he had escaped. The rebels were under Quantrell and Hunter and were moving toward Fort Scott.—There is no danger of that post being taken however it being abundantly strong enough to repel an attack.

European Intelligence

St Johns, Oct 8.—The Columbia, from Liverpool September 29th has arrived.

Earl Russell, in a speech relative to the iron clads in the Mersey, is interpreted as saying that the vessels will be detained even if the existing law is in their favor, so that Parliament may be called upon to pass a measure for the purpose.

The Directors of the Great Eastern issued a report showing that more capital must be provided or the company be dissolved.

Earl Russell had made an important speech on foreign affairs. He referred at considerable length to the American question, justified England in recognizing the Confederates as belligerent, answered some of the imputations brought by the people of the North, particularly in the speech of Senator Sumner and also replied to the complaints of the South in regard to the recognition and the blockade. He asserted that although self interest demanded that England should break it [the blockade], she prefers the course of honor, as it would have been infamous to break it. He showed that the Government had not sufficient evidence against the Alabama to detain her, until after she sailed, and explained the difficulties in the way of interference with such cases. He drew a line of distinction between ordinary vessels equipped for war purposes, and steam rams, which are in themselves formed for acts of offense, and might be used without even touching the Confederate shores. He asserted that the Government was ready to do every thing the duties of neutrals required—everything that was just to a friendly nation, and such as they would wish done to themselves, but would not yield one jot to the menace of foreign powers. He complimented the Federal Government and Seward upon the fairness with which they discussed matters of difference. He denounced the efforts of those who sought to create trouble between America and Europe and indulged in expressions of friendship towards America. He asserted that all his efforts would be directed to maintaining peace. Speaking of Poland he defined England's position and remonstrated against that of Russia but did not think England should go to war on the subject.—As regards Mexico he thought that if the Mexicans approved of what was being done for them, they should be allowed to do so.

Brownlow.—Parson Brownlow is following up the rebels in Nashville with a sharp stick. In a card, published in the Nashville Union, he says:

Mr Editor: I seized, on the 31st of August thirteen pianos the property of a noted rebel, who has gone South, after giving aid, countenance and comfort to the rebellion. After I had made my seizure, and notified the parties having these pianos in their possession to hold them subject to my orders making a record of the fact in my book of that date, other parties have come in and attached a portion of these instruments and removed them to their premises on a plea of debts due to them from the said Elliott. I have since retaken them through the United States Marshal, the officer of the Federal Court. The conflict will be, therefore one between the Courts. I think I know what I am doing, and parties setting up claims against Elliott, whose loyalty is no better than his, will find by the time this contest is through with, that they are barking up the wrong tree.

Democrats for the Union.—William E Lehman, Democratic member of Congress from Philadelphia and one of the leaders of that party, is out for Curtin for Governor. Every one of the "fighting McCooks" are out for John Brough, for Governor of Ohio. Every one of them were Democrats in 1860, but their experience in the South has compelled them to bitterly oppose such political rebels as Vallandigham.

All the signers of the Declaration of Independence with but four exceptions were Free Masons.

Why Not Do It.—We understand that it is the desire of quite a number of our prominent business men to close their establishments at eight o'clock, p m during the winter months but upon a petition, to that effect, being circulated by a number of young men, clerks, it failed to receive the general sanction of the business men. We cannot see any plausible reason for not consenting to such arrangement in Portland, as in other commercial cities—and thus give, to employer and employee, time for necessary recreation.

At Half-Mast.—The steamer Wilson G Hunt arrived yesterday evening at her wharf, having her flags at half mast—she having on board, the body of the wife of Mr A G Bradford, one of the principal stock holders of the Oregon Steam Navigation Company, for interment in the cemetery near this city.

Arriving.—Quite a large number of "emigrants" arrived on the Hunt, last evening.

Dust.—One hundred pounds of gold dust was brought down from the upper country, last evening, by Wells, Fargo & Co, besides a considerable amount in the hands of passengers.

Changed.—The California Stage Company's Coaches are now traveling on the east side of the river from Milwaukie to this city.

Impostors About.—Day before yesterday, Marshal Clark arrested a man named Teakel, for being drunk and disorderly. On his person was found printed cards, for distribution, asking charity on account of infirmities, etc. The Marshal also discovered that this same individual had the sum of $300 deposited at the banking house of Wells, Fargo & Co.

Theatrical.—Mrs. Julia Dean Hayne, Mr G B Waldron and theatrical troupe, arrived on the steamer last evening. They will appear at the Willamette Theater this evening in the thrilling drama of "Camille." Gentlemen intending to take ladies, would do well to secure seats during the day.

Portland Guards.—We had the pleasure of being present, for a short time last night, at the armory of the Portland Guards, Capt. Randall commanding, while on drill, and from the slight knowledge we have of military tactics we can say that the company is well advanced in the manual of arms, and the men make quite a soldierly appearance.

The ladies of the Oregon Sanitary Aid Society will give a reception in the vestry of the new Presbyterian Church, in this city Tuesday evening Oct 20th. The evening will be enlivened by short addresses, music, &c. A collation will also be spread for those who wish to partake of it. Admittance, 50 cents. Supper 50 cents.
MRS A C GIBBS, Sec'y
Portland, Oct 16, 1863.

Western Volunteers.—In nine months after the first call of the President for seven hundred thousand men, Illinois alone had in actual service sixty thousand, or over fifteen thousand above her quota for the army of five hundred thousand afterwards announced. Forty thousand were sent by Indiana in the same period, Iowa sent over twenty thousand, Wisconsin twenty-four thousand, and Minnesota, in 1861, sent more men for the defense of the country than her whole population numbered in 1850. Michigan raised nearly four thousand, or four thousand more than her quota, and Ohio more than one hundred thousand troops of all arms. It is, of course, needless to explain to the American reader that, in a country so new, the proportion of men not yet past their prime, as well as the general ratio of the male to the female population must be greatly in excess of that in an older community. This fact must be taken into account in one final word on the subject of Western loyalty, so far as it can be drawn from this first proof of all loyalty—the gift of the man himself to the country. Illinois has given one hundred and thirty five thousand men to the service, being about twenty one thousand over her full quota for the entire force called into the field. Indiana, independent of the numbers that spring for and at an hour's notice when there is danger upon her borders, has over one hundred and ten thousand men enlisted. Michigan has some forty-eight thousand, Wisconsin forty two thousand, Iowa fifty one thousand, and some one hundred and seventy five thousand in service in the war. The one drop more of wildness in the blood that sent the father to carve his fortune out of the wilderness sent the son into the camp at the first sound of the trumpet.

Good wine needs no bush, so Heuston, Hastings & Co, of Montgomery street, San Francisco delight to refer the public to those who patronize them regularly. Being undoubtedly the leading house in their line on the Pacific Coast they do not maintain their supremacy without making every effort to deserve it, and the result is that those who patronize them once urge their friends to go and do likewise. Their store is always full.

Sanitary Fund.—From Capt B F Smith, and $10 00. Mrs L Ainsworth, Treas Oregon Ladies Society, $68 20 in coin, $10 00 in currency. A Holbrook

Dyspepsia, or Indigestion.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, July 1, 1859.
MESSRS. A. L. SCOVILL & Co:—I have found DR. MOTT'S LIVER PILLS one of the best medicines for DYSPEPSIA that I ever used. I have been afflicted with the disease for more than six months, and my victuals disturbed my stomach, often to such a degree as to cause vomiting. I was most of the time costive. I found that the Pills kept my bowels open, without griping or pain. I have actually gained, since using them, in weight—being ten pounds heavier than when I commenced. I owe my cure solely to the use of the Pills.

In Every Age of the World, the professions have been slow to admit the value of new discoveries, or the expediency of adopting them in practice. It is not to the legal profession that we look for reforms in jurisprudence, neither do we find the advocates of medical reform among physicians. Each deprecates whatever is found to innovate upon resolved opinions and established usage. Hence the opposition which medical men too often exhibit to the use of private remedies, whatever their acknowledged value, or great efficiency in the cure of disease. No medicine has ever done more for the relief of human suffering than DR. OSGOOD'S INDIA CHOLAGOGUE. The certainty with which it cures Fever and Ague, and eradicates bile from the system is acknowledged by all. Do you prefer a speedy and effectual cure to a regular and scientific run of disease? Try the Cholagogue, and the object is accomplished. Then tell your suffering neighbor what it has done for you, that it may do the same for him.

I tried many different medicines, but all to no purpose, until I got a bottle of your PAIN PANACEA, and commenced its use. He Saved His Cassimeres

A TRUE STORY.

Edward Harris Esq, the manufacturer of the 'Harris Cassimeres' resides and has his manufactory in Woonsocket, Rhode Island where he gives to over six hundred hands steady employment the year round, uses seven hundred and fifty thousand pounds of wool annually, makes over three hundred varieties and styles of the 'Harris Cassimeres,' and has the past year—during the war times—run his extensive mill at an expense of over three thousand dollars a day. So much for our introduction.

Mr Harris is a plain benevolent looking man, and would sooner be taken for a venerable elder among the Baptists, or a leading exhorter among the meek and lowly Methodists, than what he is—a sharp, shrewd, live financier and millionaire.

One morning in the spring of 1860 Mr Harris stepped into his wholesale house in New York and just as he crossed the threshold he saw to his astonishment one of the Southern shivery kick over a pile of the finest and most fancy grades of the 'Harris Cassimeres,' and exclaimed with an oath

"Blast 'em! I wish they were all in hell!"

"Why so, my young friend?" inquired Mr Harris, stepping up to the Southerner and speaking in tones of reverential kindness.

"Because I have found out that this infernal Harris who manufactures these goods is a stinking Abolitionist, and that he is the man who made a present to John Brown of five hundred dollars when we had the hoary old sinner in jail!"

"And for this you certainly don't wish that all those fine cassimeres were sent to hell!"

"Yes I do—every one of 'em!"

"Well, now my young friend, if you were to meet Mr Harris and make his acquaintance, I doubt not you would like him, notwithstanding his Abolitionism."

"Like him! I'd sooner like the devil!"

"Do all the Southern merchants feel that way?"

"If they don't, they soon will!"

"They of course acknowledge that the 'Harris Cassimeres' are unequalled for texture and durability by the French or English manufacture?"

"Yes, we most willingly acknowledge their superiority, but since I have found out who Harris is, I wish his goods were all in hell!"

"You cannot certainly be in earnest, my dear sir."

"Yes I am—in bloody earnest."

"Then I'll tell you how to secure your wish."

"How?"

"Buy them!" and before the astonished slaveholder could recover from the shock given him, Mr Harris stepped into the office and gave directions that no more goods be sold to go south of Mason and Dixon's line unless they were paid for in advance.

"Some old missionary ain't he?" inquired the Southerner of a clerk standing near pointing to the receding form of the New England millionaire.

"That sir," exclaimed the clerk with a merry twinkle in his blue eyes "is Mr Edward Harris himself."

"Good heavens" gasped the astonished man, realizing in a breath that by his impetuosity he had imperiled his financial prospects. "I must step in at once and apologise for the rudeness of my joke. It was only a joke!"

Passing into the office with an awkward air of embarrassment he advanced to Mr Harris and exclaimed

"I—I—beg pardon, Mr Harris, for talking so plain to you but the fact is, sir, I took you to be a missionary, and thought I'd have a little joke. I was only in fun, sir, I was only in fun, and, to prove it, I will now give you an order for two hundred assorted pieces of 'Harris's Cassimeres'—on only six months' time!"

"Don't let the incident trouble you, in the least," remarked Mr Harris. "I am only a plain, hard working man, and have worked my way up from a boy among the hard fisted, greasy mechanics of New England. I make no pretensions to aristocracy or noble blood, and treat as an equal the poorest man in my employ, if he is honest and industrious. Your explanation is quite unnecessary, and I shall be happy to fill your order. But the goods must be paid for before leaving the building, as we are giving no more credit to slaveholders. Present appearances indicate that we shall soon have trouble with the South. And if the Southern political brokers fail in their speculations, I don't intend that any of their notes in my possession shall increase their embarrassment."

The Southern merchant was astonished! He was grieved! He was indignant! He swore a little! But it didn't do any good. Mr Harris' honest, good natured countenance only beamed with serenity, benevolence, and Yankee firmness. He was ready to serve his excited customer but he must receive bankable funds, instead of Southern notes.

As the goods were in great demand in the Southern market, and must be had, a cash purchase to the amount of one thousand dollars was made and the goods shipped for Cottondom but the indignant Southerner swore in oaths loud, long ringing and fearful, that he would never wear the cursed stuff—no, indeed, not a bit of it.

And now comes the nub of the joke.

The merchant was captured as a spy, a few months ago, in Washington, and was sent under guard to Fort Hotel de Warren, in Boston Harbor.

While passing through Boston it was his luck to meet Mr Harris at the depot, and it was his mortification to have it noticed that his pants were made from one of the identical pieces of Mr Harris' cassimeres which he had so lustily wished in h—ll.

Seeing that Mr Harris noticed and recognized the goods, he exclaimed with a sardonic sneer.

"Harris, you praying old hypocrite, I curse you for a prophet! You said that if I wanted your old cassimeres in h—ll I'd better buy 'em, and I reckon they have gone there. At any rate, my store was burned to the ground, and what wasn't destroyed by fire, was stolen by thieves. Again I curse you for a prophet."

With no desire to aggravate the suffering of the infatuated rebel, Mr Harris turned upon his heel and left in sorrow. The next week, however, he forwarded to the rebel, enough yards of the best cassimere for an entire suit of clothes with the brotherly remark, that although his old customer erred in politics and Christianity, he would find that the Yankee Abolitionists were brothers to all, white or black, in prosperity or adversity.

The rebel received the goods as they were sent in a spirit of kindness, and sent back the following

'FRIEND HARRIS—Your brotherly present was this day received and I return thanks. If I am ever permitted again to return to my native home, I shall try to disabuse my friends of the belief that New Englanders are all fanatics who labor only for civil war and bloodshed. You have my gratitude and respect. I have the honor to be your obedient servant."

The affair has created no little excitement among the financial circles of Boston and it is hoped that at the close of the war—which is shortly expected—that this little incident may be used as an opening wedge to reorganize a friendly feeling with the South.—Gouard's Real Estate Reporter.

FROM A WESTERN SOLDIER.—The Worcester Spy has some interesting extracts from a letter of a Worcester county boy, who is captain of an Illinois company of volunteers now in the army of Rosecrans. He writes

"But I do not think this State or any other except South Carolina would have left the Union had they for a moment dreamed of war. The people universally believed the opposition to their withdrawal would consist only of a few feeble protests from the authority at Washington. After the first grand uprising at the fall of Sumter they could not realize that, by their acts, war was really upon them and they felt at last we would make but a faint struggle. Their eyes were not opened until after the battle of Bull Run. The spirit in which we met that defeat and the unflinching energy which was manifested in our preparations for another campaign, gave them their first insight into northern character, for they saw we had accepted the issue and would battle it out. Said an old man to me only yesterday 'I knowed the victory of Bull Run would make the Southern people proud for a spell but I knowed too as soon as the first shouting was over, our folks would begin to see that they'd waked up a mighty ugly critter—and they did.'"

We give a further extract from the same letter. The writer's words have the ring of a brave and true heart.

"The more I see of this country, the more determined I am to fight the question out. If it were (as some claim) a mere territorial war, I believe I would fight hard before I would relinquish this splendid State. It is a rich beautiful land, full of northern enterprise and energy could develop its resources it would soon rank as one of the brightest stars in our constellation of States. After this war is over, many a sturdy fellow in the army of the Cumberland will return here to pass his days and establish a homestead for his children. You doubtless, have often heard the question asked supposing you conquer the South can you hold them? Will they not be at a continual war with you? If the same population as existed before the war were to inhabit the country exclusively, there would undoubtedly be continual war but the society is to be changed—there will be a mixture of northern men and northern sentiment, so as to control affairs. Relieved of slavery, immigration will soon people its rich valleys with a hardy freedom loving community and then distinct nationalities will pass away with its slaves and landed aristocracies and on their ruins will spring up a splendid nation. I thank God that I live in this, the hour of the grandest struggle that the world has ever known that I can have something to do in this great work."
